

Data Practitioner: How much do we get paid?

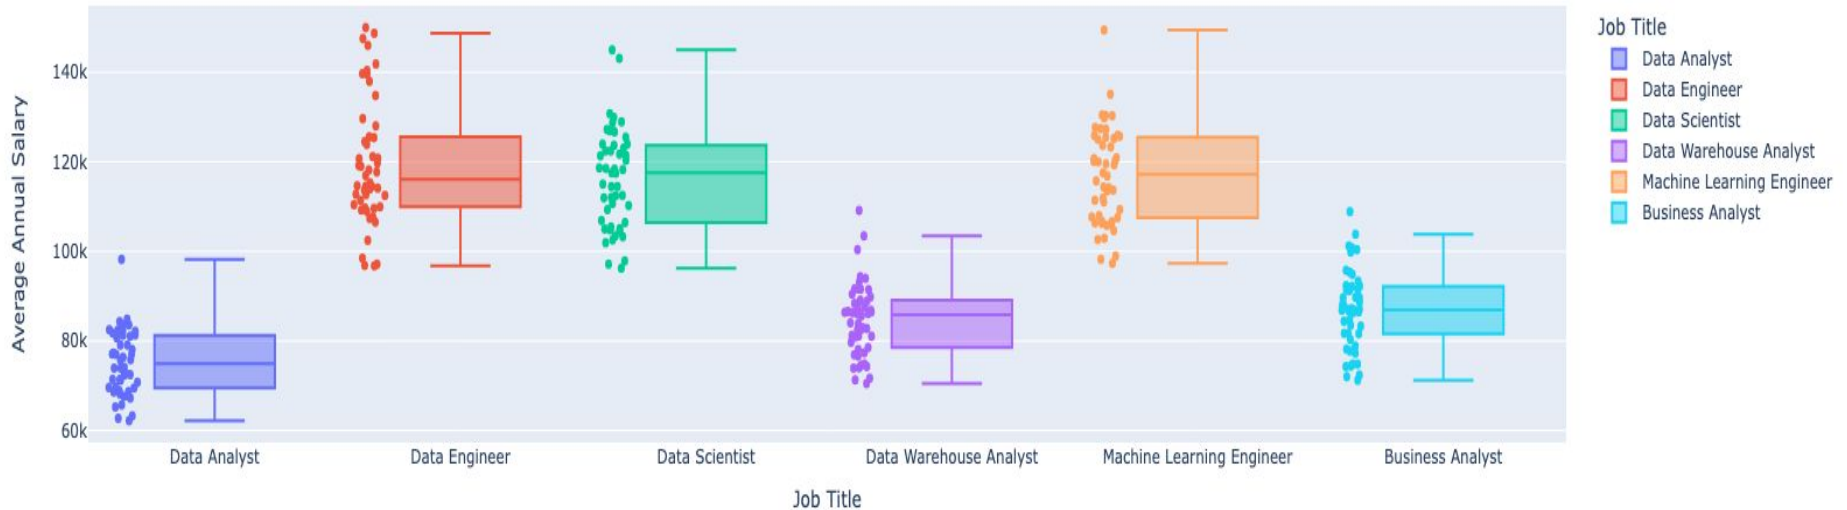

Jawaid Hakim

Data Practitioner: Jobs

- Data Analyst
 - Analyze a company's data using a combination of mathematical inspection, transformation, and modeling techniques to simplify and condense it.
- Data Engineer
 - Development of systems, software, and infrastructure used to process, store and analyze data.
- Data Scientist
 - Run, develop, and use analysis tools for company integration and organization. Conduct analytical experiments and evaluate theoretical alternate models.
- Data Warehouse Analyst
 - Gather and process information stored in the company database. Duties include designing and managing the database, troubleshooting issues as they arise.
- Machine Learning Engineer
 - Develop and implement advanced machine learning algorithms and systems.
- Business Analyst
 - Streamline a client's business efficiency at a high level. Responsible for discovering hidden opportunities within a company and implementing strategies that positively impact the business's functionality and profitability.

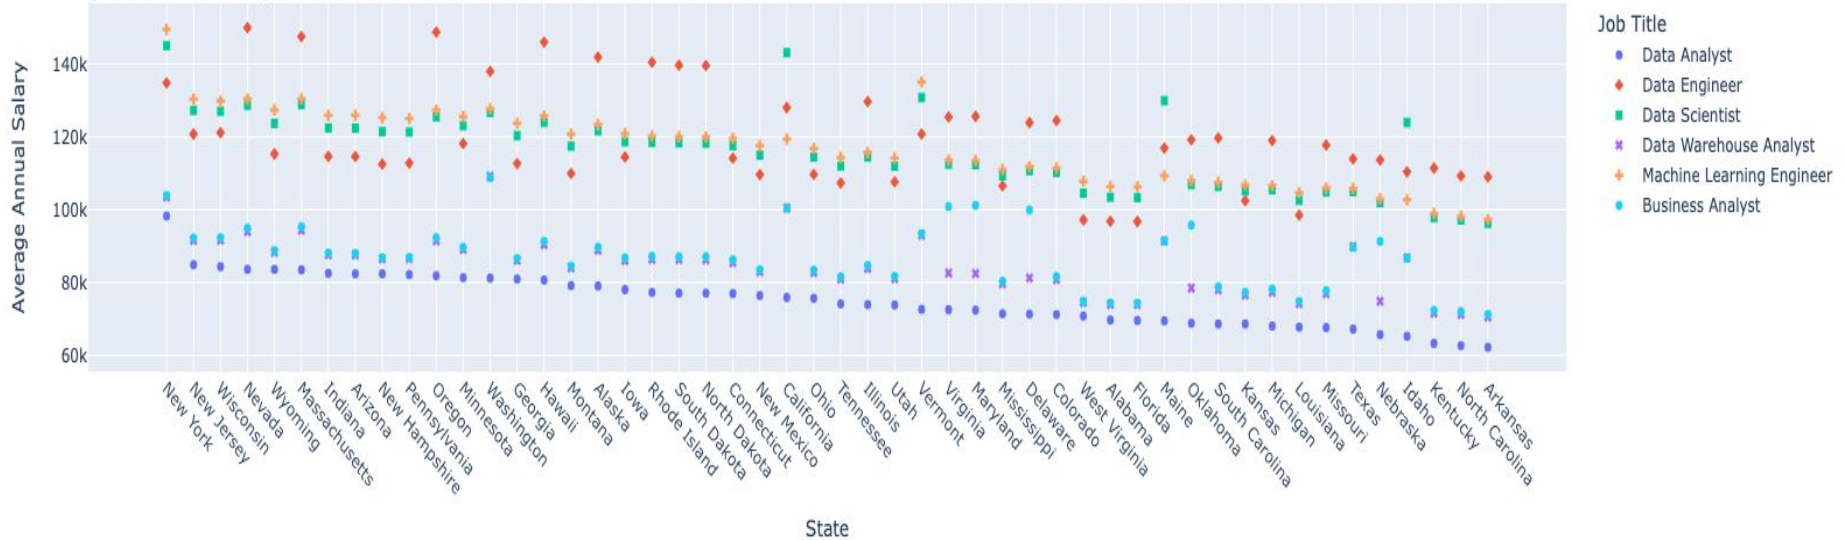

Jobs and Salaries by the Numbers

Top 3 (by Salary) Data Practitioner Jobs: Machine Learning Engineer, Data Engineer, Data Scientist.
(Hover for details)

Jobs and Salaries by State

Data Engineer, Data Scientist, and Machine Learning Engineer salaries are amongst the highest across all States.
Data Analyst earns the lowest salary.
(Hover for details)

Data Source: ZipRecruiter (www.ziprecruiter.com)

- Search for job titles on ZipRecruiter that 'sound like' a Data Practitioner
- Plugin job title into the ZipRecruiter Average Salary by State query URL. For example, for the Data Engineer job title the URL is <https://www.ziprecruiter.com/Salaries/What-Is-the-Average-Data-Engineer-Salary-by-State>
- Save data (if available) in CSV file